Logotype specimen v3 — slim, structural, magazine

Five new candidates extending the direction you liked in Bricolage Grotesque Light + Bodoni Moda

Light: slim + structural confidence + magazine-modern feel. Three sans (Space Grotesk, Manrope, Familjen Grotesk) and two serifs (Playfair Display, Italiana). All free OFL, all self-hostable.

Same four brands, same brand colors, hero + small sizes. Compare these against v2 (where you saw Bricolage and Bodoni).

- Space Grotesk — Light
- Manrope — ExtraLight
- Familjen Grotesk — Light
- Playfair Display — Light
- Italiana

Space Grotesk — Light

Florian Karsten · SIL OFL — free, self-hostable
Variable: weight 300–700

Verdict: Distinctive geometric grotesque. Tall ascenders, characterful 'a' and 'g', double-story 'g' alt.
More personality than Bricolage — feels current, design-forward. Used by lots of tech-publication brands.

Manrope — ExtraLight

Mikhail Sharanda · SIL OFL — free, self-hostable
Variable: weight 200–800

Verdict: Ultra-clean modern geometric sans. ExtraLight (200) is delicate but confident. Less distinctive than Space Grotesk but more refined. Reads as 'product company that hired a typographer'.

Familjen Grotesk — Light

Göran Söderström (Letters from Sweden) · SIL OFL — free, self-hostable
Variable: weight 400–700, italic

Verdict: Contemporary Nordic grotesque. Originally designed for Swedish public service. Calm, considered, slightly characterful — single-story 'a', distinctive 'g'. Closer to Bricolage's spirit than the others.

Playfair Display — Light

Claus Eggers Sørensen · SIL OFL — free, self-hostable
Variable: weight 400–900, italic, optical size

Verdict: Closest cousin to Bodoni Moda. Same high-contrast neoclassical lineage, slightly less dramatic, slightly more readable at small sizes. The 'magazine masthead' default for the last decade — well-loved for a reason.

Italiana

Santiago Orozco · SIL OFL — free, self-hostable
Single weight (400). Static.

Verdict: Ultra-thin Italian Bodoni-style display serif. Hairlines that feel like calligraphy. Most dramatic option in the lineup — Vogue, Vanity Fair territory. Risk: too formal, too feminine for the lighting-tech context.
